FYI. I received this note from [] yesterday. Copies will be passed on to appropriate employees. A lot of people disrupted their Christmas activities to keep CAMS running.

Committee on Imagery Requirements and Exploitation

8 JAN 1968

NOTE FOR: Bill Donnelly, D/OIT

Dear Bill:

This note is to request that you convey to all those people in OIT and their contractors my thanks for the extraordinary effort made the week before Christmas to get the CAMS IDM up and running. As I understand the effort required, it was truly extraordinary and I recognize that many personal plans had to be thrown overboard that week by a significant number of people.

It is gratifying to realize that the importance of the successful operation of CAMS is so widely recognized and that we continue to have people, both CIA employees and contractors, who will make the personal effort necessary to provide emergency support for a critical system. Having CAMS go down is not enjoyable, but the response of the people involved in getting it back up should cause us to view our associates with pride .
